IMMEDIATE RELEASE ANNOUNCEMENT

Acepsis, LLC welcomes Rob Kolb to the Acepsis Management Team

Acepsis, LLC is excited to announce the newest addition to its growing team, Mr. Rob Kolb. Rob will join Acepsis LLC as the Director of Marketing on April 1, 2024. With more than 30 years of management experience in the North American agricultural market, Rob brings a wealth of expertise and innovation to the Acepsis team.

In his new role, Rob will lead the coordination of the marketing processes for Acepsis, focusing on expanding its reach across North America in the critical dairy market areas. His knowledge of the industry and outstanding track record make him an ideal fit for this crucial position.

Throughout his career, Rob has distinguished himself by introducing cutting-edge technologies within the North American agricultural market.

As the Director of Marketing, Rob will leverage his extensive background to further enhance Acepsis, LLC's animal wellness focused technologies. Rob's deep understanding of both the industry and innovative hygiene solutions will undoubtedly strengthen and contribute to the success and growth of Acepsis.

"We are thrilled to welcome Rob to the Acepsis team," said Mike Pawlak, Chief Marketing Officer. His proven expertise and remarkable achievements in the agricultural industry align seamlessly with our commitment to excellence and innovation. We are excited that Rob's contributions will significantly enhance our ability to serve our customers and make a positive impact on livestock agriculture."

Join us in extending a warm welcome to Rob Kolb as he embarks on this new journey with Acepsis, LLC. His addition to the team signifies an exciting chapter of growth and innovation, as we continue to strive for excellence in delivering state-of-the-art solutions for the agricultural industry.
